CREATIONS. Eng.: Bn. Burghley, 1571; E. of Exeter, 1605. U.K.: M. of Exeter, 1801.—The Rt. Hon. Sir Wm. Cecil, Sec. of State under Edwd. VI. and Elizabeth, and afterwards Lord High Treasurer and Chancellor of Cambridge University, was created Bn. Burghley; his elder son, his successor, was made Earl of Exeter, and the 10th Earl raised to the Marquessate (the younger son was made Earl of Salisbury). Tennyson's lyric ballad of 'The Lord of Burleigh' (so he spells it) is founded upon fact, but in so slight a degree that the attaching of it to definite individuals was hardly justifiable, becoming as it does the falsification of an actual narrative: the characters ought to have been as imaginary as the incidents. So far from the hero of the story being the greatest Lord "in all the county," he was a plain "Mr." and could have had no "majestic mansion" with which to surprise his bride. What is true is that in 1791 Henry Cecil, nephew and heir presumptive of the 9th Earl, but bearing at the time not even a courtesy-title, married (immediately after divorcing his first wife) the "village maiden," Sarah Hoggins of Bolas Magna, Salop. At that village they resided for two years until his accession to the Peerage made her a Countess; but she died in 1797, four years before his elevation to the Marquessate. Her daughter's daughter was mother of the late and present Dukes of Wellington. The "three fair children" is also correct, at least as far as enumeration goes; but beyond these few facts the story is simply a poetical dressing up.

CREATIONS. Eng.: Bn. Fauconberg, 1295 by writ; Bn. Conyers, 1509 by writ.—The 1st Bn., Walter de Fauconberg, is shown to have been summoned by Edward I. to a Parliamentary assembly at Shrewsbury in 1283 and again 1295 and he was one of the signatories to the letter of the Barons to the Pope in reference to the opposing claims of Edward and Boniface to be ruler of Scotland. The 6th Bn. was created Earl of Kent, but at his death in 1463 that title became extinct, and the Barony, which was strictly his wife's, fell at her decease into an abeyance of some four and a half centuries between their three daughters, the youngest of whom was wife of Sir Jno. Conyers. The son of these two, Sir Wm. Conyers, was created Bn. Conyers; he served at the siege of Norham Castle and at Flodden Field, and was Constable of Richmond and Middleham Castles. In the 16th century a Bnss. Conyers married the Marq. of Carmarthen, aftds. 5th Duke of Leeds, and the title remained in that Dukedom till 1859, when the death of the 7th Duke without issue or brother devolved the primary succession upon a cousin, but permitted the present Barony to pass to the son of his deceased sister. As stated under "Conyers," upon the death of the 12th Bn. of that title in 1888 an abeyance of four years ensued.

ff.—Note on the proper names commencing with ff or Ff :

The use of a double f, at the beginning of proper names, still affected by a few families, is merely a mistaken use in print of the written form of capital F which was in almost universal use, as a relic of mediæval script, up to the early part of last century. Most London leases, for instance, engrossed a century ago or even less, will show that not only proper names but all other nouns, which would have been printed with an initial F, were engrossed or written with a letter which in appearance amounts to two small f's intertwined. But there is no more reason why a man named " French " should have his name printed " ffrench " or " Ffrench," than that he should print ffreehold, ffire, ffloddon-ffield or ffiea. In fact, the ancestors of every Briton, whose name begins with F to-day, wrote their names at one time with an intertwined " ff," although their names invariably appeared in print with a simple capital F. The Frenches, Farringtons, Folkes, Fieldens and Finches of to-day have thus no more warrant for affecting the double "f" in print than have the Fentons, Fields, Fosters, Frasers or any other family whose name begins with F. The whole mistake has arisen through their finding their names written in some old document with what they believed to be a double f, whereas in reality the letter was only the then usual form of a written capital F. To be logical, even in writing, these families should continue to write "the" as "ye."

GARDNER BARONY (U.K. and Irel.). Succession contested between ALAN LEGGE Gardner, b, 1881, and ALAN HYDE Gardner, b. 1878.

CREATIONS. A Bt. Gt. Br. 1794; Bn. Gardner, Irel. 1800, U.K. 1806.—Adm. Sir Alan Gardner, M.P. for Plymouth and Westminster, a Lord of the Admiralty, and a distinguished officer under Earl Howe, obtained successively all of these titles.

 The 3rd Bn. died in 1883 leaving no legitimate male issue. Contested claims to the succession are now advanced by two 2nd cousins, both great-grandsons of the 2nd son of the 1st Bn. The claimant till lately supposed to stand alone was Alan Hyde, 2nd son of the 2nd son just named; but he died in 1899, leaving a son, the above claimant Alan Legge. But a rival claim is raised by another Alan Hyde, grandson of the 3rd son of the above 2nd son, whose father (d. 1901) bore the same name, and who bases his claim upon an alleged irregularity in the marriage of his rival's grandfather, Stewart Wm. Gardner, which was effected with an Indian Begum, a cousin of his own, her grandfather, Wm. Gardner, having married an Indian princess who was adopted as a daughter by the Emperor of Delhi. The late claimant himself, the father of Alan Legge, was the third to marry a native Indian girl, the ceremony being performed in their case by a Methodist minister in the house of the claimant's father. His late rival, the Alan Hyde who died in 1901, was an artist living at Ipswich, where he assumed the title of Baron. His son, of the same name, now continues the rivalry. There have been four Alan Hydes in the pedigree—the son of the 2nd son (d. 1899, father of the claimant Alan Legge), and the 3rd son, with his own son and grandson, the rival claimant.

REATION. Ld. Gray, Scot. 1444.—The present Bnss. is sometimes n as the 20th in line. The contested point is whether it was Andrew Gray (Kt.) or his untitled son of the same Christian e who was originally summoned as Ld. Gray ; 'Burke' says ctly the latter, and as the Union Roll places the Barony after of Saltoun, created 1445, and as neither 'Burke' nor 'Debrett' earlier than 1444 as its starting-point, whereas the knighted Andrew died in 1438, we are compelled in consistency to call the 19th Barony, though possibly 'Foster' ('Lodge') may be in dating it "before 1437." It was a matter of dispute almost s beginning. On the death of the Bnss. 17th in line the succon devolved upon her 2nd cousin, the 14th Earl of Moray, by n the Barony was held from 1878 till his death without issue, the former title was released by the succession of his niece, Bnss. 19th in line, who with her husband, the late Jas. Maclaren n, adopted the double form of Smith-Gray for themselves only.

CREATION. Bn. Grey de Ruthyn, Eng. 1324 by writ (see "Hastings, Marquessate," close of note).—The 1st Bn. by writ was Roger de G ey, who, according to "Nicolaa," was son of the 3rd feudal Bn. Grey of Codnor (a line abeyant from 1496); but "Burke" gives him as 2nd son of the 2nd Bn. Grey de Wilton (this line persisting till attainted in 1603 and eventually revived 1801 on the creation of the Wilton Earldom). The 4th to the 11th Bns. Grey de Ruthyn were also Earls of Kent, but this title passed to a cousin, one of whose descendants was made Marq. and Duke of Kent; but upon his death in 1740 all three titles expired, and the next appearance of the Dukedom was on its bestowal in 1799 on the father of Que Victoria. Then we find the 17th Bn. Grey de Ruthyn created 1717 Earl of Sussex, but that title lasted only to the 3rd Earl a 19th Bn. The Bnss. 21st in line married the 2nd Marq. of Ha ings, their elder son succeeding to that title but dying before mother; the 2nd son became 4th Marq. and 22nd Bn., but di without issue, the Marquessate expiring and the Bny. going in abeyance between his sisters.

CREATIONS. Bn. of Guilford, Eng. 1683; E. of Guilford, Gt. Br. 1752. "Lord North" is used as the courtesy-title of an eld. son, but it is unfortunate that the absence of any distinctive second title to the Earldom brings this into confusion with that of Bn. North.—Sir Francis North (Kt.), 2nd son of 4th Bn. North, a distinguished lawyer who had been Attorney-General and Lord Chief Justice of Common Pleas, was appointed Lord Keeper of the Great Seal and granted the Barony of Guilford. The 3rd Bn. succeeded as 7th Bn. North and was elevated to the Earldom. On the death of the 3rd Earl in 1802 the North Barony passed into abeyance between daughters until liberated as a distinct Peerage in 1841; the Guilford titles then went to a brother.

Creations. Scot. :- Bn. of Binning and Byres, 1613 : E. of Haddington, 1619.—Sir Thos. Hamilton, a Lord of Session (as Lord Drumcairn), and afterwards Secretary of State, was successively awarded these two Peerages, the Earldom at first under the title of Melrose, but this was changed to Haddington by a new patent in 1627, retaining the original precedence. The 2nd Earl, who took the side of the Covenanters against the tyranny of King Charles and Laud, was in 1640 blown up in his castle by the treacherous connivance of one or more of those from within. The late 11th E., a K.T. and Repres. Peer, assumed by licence name of Arden after Baillie 1858, before succession, his father taking the addition Hamilton in the next year (this being the orig. surname of the family, for which the grandfather of that Peer had substituted Baillie). CREATIONS. Eng. : Bn. Hastings, 1295 (by writ) ; a Bt. 1660. —Sir Henry de Hastings appears to have been the first to receive the above writ of summons, but the recognised founder of the family was Sir Thos. de Astley, one of the Barons who fought at Evesham against Henry III., and whose family became eventually united by marriage with that of Hastings. From the death of the 5th Bn. (3rd and last Earl of Pembroke in that line) in 1391 this Peerage was in abeyance for 450 years, till in 1841 this condition was terminated by the awarding of the title to Sir Jacob Astley, 6th Bt., who is now accounted to have been the 16th Bn., though the ten intermediate names are not supplied, and obviously are made up of those who never held the title in their lifetime.

Creations. Eng.: Visc. Hereford, 1550; a Bt. 1661.—There were Earls of Hereford from feudal times, the first recorded by Nicolas being the Count of Bretville in Normandy, commander of the van of the Conqueror's army at Hastings. Then we have Henry de Bohun (creation 1199), one of the 25 "Barons" appointed to enforce the observance of Magna Charta. His line became extinct in 1372, and in 1397 Henry Plantagenet, afterwards Henry IV., was made Duke of Hereford. This title was merged in the Crown, but that of Earl of Hereford was used conjointly with Northampton, Buckingham, and Perche, apparently without warrant, by Humphrey, Earl of Stafford, afterwards Duke of Buckingham (creation of 1444). The Viscty. now subsisting was conferred upon the 3rd Bn. Ferrers in recognition of his services in the French wars of Heavy VIII. That Barony after a while fell into abeyance, but was revived as a separate Peerage, and eventually made into the present Earldom of that title, q.v. The 2nd Visc. Hereford was promoted to be Earl of Essex and of Ewe, the 2nd Earl being the unfortunate favourite of Queen Elizabeth; this title, however, lapsed on the death of the 3rd Earl, the distinguished General in the Parliamentary Army, simultaneously with the passing of the above Ferrers Barony into abeyance. The late 15th Visc. Hereford was an Hon. Canon of Durham.

CREATIONS. Bn. Howard de Walden, Eng. 1597 by writ; Bn. Seaford, U.K. 1826.—Lord Thos. Howard, K.G., son of the 4th Duke of Norfolk, was created Bn. Howard de Walden and six years later Earl of Suffolk: he is stated to have been mainly instrumental in discovering the Gunpowder Plot. On the death of the 3rd Earl that title went to a brother; but the Barony, being a creation by writ, passed into abeyance between two daughters, and so continued from 1689 to 1784, shortly after which it devolved upon the 4th Earl of Bristol as 5th Bn. On the death of this nobleman in 1803—his eldest son as well as the daughter and sole child of that son being both deceased—the Barony passed to the son of that daughter who had married Chas. Rose Ellis, 1st Bn. Seaford; but the Earldom went to the Earl's 2nd son, subsequently created 1st Marq. of Bristol. The 4th Bn. Howard, a Field-Marshal in the Army (successor to the 3rd Earl of Suffolk), was created Bn. Braybrooke, but on his decease without issue, that title parted off as a separate Peerage. The 6th Bn. was Minister at Stockholm, Lisbon, and Brussels. The family name has been successively Howard, Whitwell-Griffin, Hervey, and now Scott-Ellis.

KINGSALE, BARON. MICHAEL CONSTANTINE de Courcy, 33rd Bn. (PREMIER BARON of Ireland): son of 32nd Bn.: b. May 8, 1855; suc. 1895; mar. 1880 his 1st cousin, Emily Frances Anne, dau. of the late Wm. Sinclair de Courcy. Seat, The Meads, Crowborough, Sussex.

CREATION. Irel.: Bn. of Kingsale and Bn. of Ringrone, 1223 by tenure, stated to have been confirmed by patent 1397.—Sir John de Courcy, an English Knight, the famous founder of the family, is celebrated as having, in conjunction with his brother-in-law Sir Almericus Tristram (who obtained the tenure Barony of Howth), effected the conquest of Ulster; and again, after having given offence to King John, as having acted as English champion in a single combat with the champion of France (who however fled without striking a blow), thus regaining his sovereign's favour. The King, we are told in "Burke," had actually imprisoned him for a year; but upon receipt of the challenge from France, and finding no one else ready to accept it, Sir John was liberated for the purpose, with the above result of his antagonist being seized with panic and taking to flight. The two monarchs fraternised over this event, and joined in desiring to see an exhibition of Sir John's strength, upon which he cleft a massive helmet in twain at a single blow. This exploit so delighted his master that he asked him to choose whatever he should give him; whereupon the Knight replied that he had estates and titles enough, and would ask the privilege, for himself and all successors, of remaining covered in the royal presence. He died in 1219, apparently without issue, but soon after his death the Baronies of Kingsale and Ringrone are stated to have been granted to his kinsman Miles de Courcy. The title of Earl of Ulster (q.v.) appears never to have been held by this line.

Morgan, who with herself assumed by licence, 1890, the additional name of Grenville, the last of her former five surnames (d. 1896). Seat, Moreton Ldg., Maids Moreton, nr. Buckingham.

CREATION. Ld. Kinloss, Scot. 1602 (see "Buckingham Dukedom"). —Sir Edwd. Bruce (Kt.), who was twice Scottish Ambassador to England, was 1st Ld. Kinloss, the 3rd Ld. being made Earl of Elgin, and the 4th, Earl of Ailesbury, whilst the 7th, by a shifting of the line, was the 3rd Duke of Chandos. All these and other titles have either lapsed or separated off, leaving the Kinloss Barony wholly to itself. The present Bnss. is called by some authorities the 8th in line, and correctly as far as assumption of the title decides. On the death of the 6th Bn. (who was also 4th Earl of Elgin) the succession devolved upon the 3rd Duke of Chandos (last of the line extinct 1789), who never assumed the title nor did his daughter and heiress, who married the 1st Duke of Buckingham and Chandos of the line created 1822, nor again their son the 2nd Duke (to whom the succession de jure passed from his mother), so that the 3rd Duke had in 1868 to substantiate his claim to the Barony before the House of Lords.

"Lord Inverurie" is the courtesy-title of the heir when a firstborn son.—Sir Wm. Keith was created Earl Marischal of Scotland about 1458, and this honour passed by hereditary descent like that of Earl Marshal in England. The 3rd son of the 6th Earl Marischal, the Hon. Sir Jno. Keith, was in 1660 made Hereditary Knight Marischal of Scotland in recognition of his having concealed and so preserved the Scottish regalia during the Civil War; and in 1677 the above Earldom and Lordship were added. The 2nd Earl, however, joined in the rebellion of 1715, for which he was deprived of the Knight Marischalship, though of that only. But his relative the 10th Earl Marischal, who had participated in the same rebellion, was attainted, so that on coming to succeed in 1761 to the Peerage titles he was disqualified and they remained suspended till his death. A daughter of the above 2nd Earl, however, had married the 5th Ld. Falconer (a title originally conferred upon a son of Sir Alex. Falconer), and their grandson Anthony Adrian, 8th Ld., now became 5th Earl of Kintore. So the matter is stated in 'Burke,' but the present Peer regards the predecessor of this last as an actual holder of the title, and thus considers himself the 10th Earl. The U.K. Barony was granted to the Earl ordinarily accounted the 7th.

CREATION. E. of Leicester and Visc. Coke, U.K. 1837. Earldom, which first appears in Sir H. Nicolas's pages wi remote date of 1103, has undergone a long succession of extin and forfeitures till it has become distinctly a modern line. most notable among former holders of the title, excepting for Simon de Montfort, was the discarded favourite of Queen Eliz a son of the Duke of Northumberland. He (Sir Robert D K.G.) was the only representative of that creation, and later lines were started in 1618, 1744, and 1784 (for the last of th under "Townshend, Marq."). An illustrious ancestor of the Peer is Sir Edward Coke, knighted by James I. and appointe Justice of the King's Bench. A descendant, Thos. Wm. Co many years M.P. for Norfolk, was the recipient of the present The creation of 1744 was also to a Coke. It has been notice from the birth of the 1st Earl in the present line to the de his late son there occurred the long interval of 157 years 1909), the 2nd Peer having been born when his father was o and himself having reached the age of 86. The 2nd Earl wa married and had eighteen children, the eldest of whom was 4 older than the youngest, who now has a niece 27 years olde himself. The 1st Earl headed a deputation to George III. in of recognising the independence of the American Colonies, a later date he delivered a violent attack upon that Monarch's m thus deferring for a time his own elevation to the Peerage. at length this elevation did occur he took the title "Leice Holkham," on account of the 2nd Marq. Townshend havin constituted Earl of Leicester, and that title being borne by h posed heir, who sat as such in the Commons, whilst the ne sat in the Lords. But an Act of Parliament pronounced th to be no son, and the Townshend Earldom of Leicester extinct in 1855. Still, from 1837 up till this last year the tw doms of Leicester actually existed side by side.

CREATIONS. Irl. : E. of Kildare, 1316 ; Bn. Offaly, 1620 ; M. of Kildare and E. of Offaly, 1761 ; D. of Leinster, 1766. Gt. Br. : Visc. Leinster, 1747. U.K. : Bn. Kildare, 1870.—Gerald Fitzmaurice FitzGerald, the 1st Bn. (tenure), was son of Maurice FitzGerald, "patriarch of the Irish Geraldines," and a distinguished warrior, who, with the aid of Strongbow and a mere 600 English troops, defeated 30,000 Irish, who, under Roderick, King of Ireland, had invested Dublin, the latter monarch having previously driven the King of Leinster from his territory, whilst the purpose of Maurice and Strongbow was to reinstate him. The 2nd Bn. Offaly (tenure again) introduced the Franciscans and Dominicans into Ireland ; the 6th was created Earl of Kildare, and it was in his time that the family coat of arms, containing three monkeys, was adopted, in consequence, it is said, of this Earl, when an infant, having been rescued from a fire by a tame ape, which tenderly bore him aloft into one of the towers. Several Earls of Kildare have figured in English history. The 7th was Lord Deputy of Ireland and afterwards Lord Chancellor. The 8th, called "Geroit Mor" (i.e. Gerald the Great), was for 33 years Lord Deputy and Lord Justice, and was also a warrior famed for his strength. He was deceived into supporting Lambert Simnel in his claims to the throne, and engaged in the conflict with Henry VII.'s troops, but he afterwards made his peace with the King, and in the following year gave valiant aid against Perkin Warbeck. The 9th Earl incurred the hatred of Wolsey and was committed to the Tower, where he died from horror at the sentence of excommunication pronounced against him for the murder of Archbp. Alen, committed by his followers. The 10th Earl, his son, in consequence, threw off his English allegiance and revolted, but surrendered under promise of pardon, which Henry VIII. violated and had him hanged, drawn, and quartered. The 11th Earl, then but a boy of twelve, had to flee the country, and was housed and brought up at Rome by Cardinal Pole. Edward VI. restored him his estates, and Mary his honours. The 20th Earl was constituted Marquess and Duke, and awarded also the British Viscounty. The Kildare Barony was created for the heir of the 3rd Duke during the lifetime of his father.

CREATIONS. Scot. : Bn. Melville, orig. 1616, extended remainder under which the title continued 1627. E. of Leven and Bn. Balgonie, 1641 ; E. of Melville, Visc. Kirkaldie, and Bn. Raith, Monymail, and Balwearie, 1690.—Sir Robt. Melville (Kt.), a P.C. of Scotland and Ambassador to England, the 1st Bn., was distinguished by his dauntless endeavour to prevent the execution of Mary Queen of Scots, which boldness of his caused Elizabeth to threaten his life ; but after that arbitrary woman had passed away, King James elevated him to the Peerage as Bn. Melville, also appointing him Vice-Chancellor and an Extra Lord of Session (as Ld. Murdocarnie). The 4th Bn. obtained from William III. the Earldom of Melville with its accompanying Viscounty and Baronies, though previously he had been involved in the rebellion of Monmouth, and been in consequence attainted. The Earldom of Leven had a separate commencement, having been conferred upon Gen. Sir Alex. Lesley, a distinguished commander, who, having first served under Gustavus Adolphus, afterwards led a Scottish Army of the Covenanters in an invasion of England against Charles I., and had an important share in the victory of Marston Moor, but who, upon the treaty with that monarch, so won his favour that he raised him to this Peerage, and obtained his continued services upon the Royalist side. His granddaughter married the 1st Earl of Melville, and thus, on the failure of the direct Leven line, the two Earldoms came to be united. The 13th Earl was a K.G. and a Scottish Representative Peer ; also Lord High Commissioner to the Church of Scotland from 1898 to 1905. There have been two Countesses in the Leven line, and the present Peer will be reckoned the 15th or 13th according as these are or are not included in the numbering. Our practice in this work is to count the entire line, male and female alike ; but some authorities allow themselves to vary from one plan to the other doubtless to suit the preference of individual Peers. The present Earl's father advised us to call him the 13th.

T. F. ret., prev. E. Rid. Yeom., late Maj. 8th Hussars; served in S. Africa 1900–1; son of 11th E. (a descendant of the 4th Ld., not Earl —see below); b. CREATIONS. Scot.: Ld. Lindsay of the Byres, 1445; E. of Lind- say and Ld. Parbroath, 1633; Visc. of Garnock and Ld. Kilbirnie, Kingsburn, and Drumry, 1703.—Sir Jno. Lindsay (Kt.), Justiciary of the Northern part of Scotland, was created Ld. Lindsay of the Byres, the 10th Ld. received the Earldom, and the son of his 2nd son was separately created Visc. of Garnock, the latter's grandson eventually succeeding as 5th Earl of Lindsay. Meantime a com- plication had set in to this higher title, causing it for some 166 years to be associated with the Earldom of Crawford. The succession to both Earldoms was open to "heirs male general" (INTROD.), but upon the 16th Earl of Crawford having no issue, he in 1642 obtained a new charter diverting the descent to the "direct heirs" of his friend and remote kinsman, the 1st Earl of Lindsay, with reversion, upon the failure of such heirs, to the previous line of remainder, i.e., his own collaterals. Thus this 1st Earl of Lindsay took the title of Earl of Crawford-Lindsay, and his five next suc- cessors continued to hold both titles; but in 1808 the "direct heirs" of the Lindsay line failed, and then, in virtue of the above charter and the regular law for "heirs general," the lines divided, and each went to its own collaterals—the Lindsay Earldom to the 16th Lord Lindsay of the Byres, and that of Crawford to the 6th Earl of Bal- carres. It must be observed that the above Earls all along had held this Lordship of the Byres, but that in 1808 a reversion had to be made to a descendant of the 4th Ld., followed in 1878, as decided by the House of Lords, by another reversion, but only to the descen- dant of another son of the same Lord. The 4th Earl of Lindsay, 20th of Crawford, distinguished himself in the wars with the Turks and French, commanding in 1740 the Black Watch, then styled "the gallant 42nd" and "Lord Crawford-Lindsay's Highlanders."—The name of Bethune was first assumed in 1779 by the grandfather of the 9th Earl de jure, who, however, never adopted the title, and was known as Sir Henry Lindsay-Bethune; he was created a Baronet in 1836 for his military achievements in Persia, but this honour expired with his son the 10th Earl.

Hastings de Hastings, 1461 ; Bn. Hastings de Hungerford, 1482.—Sir Hugh Campbell, Sheriff of Ayr, a descendant of the ancestor of the Dukes of Argyll, was created Ld. Campbell of Loudoun. His granddaughter, Bnss. in her own right, married Sir Jno. Campbell, son of Sir Colin Campbell of Glenorchy, and her husband was awarded the Loudoun Earldom with its accompanying Baronies. The English Baronies (all by writ) : Ld. Botreaux, 1368 ; Ld. Hungerford, 1426 ; Ld. de Molines, 1445 ; Ld. Hastings de Hastings, 1461 ; Bn. Hastings de Hungerford, 1482 ; had become united in Mary, heiress of the 4th Ld. Hungerford, who married the heir to the Hastings Barony, which afterwards became a Marquessate, this last becoming extinct on the lapse of male heirs, whilst the Baronies went into abeyance, from which they were liberated in 1871 in favour of the Ctss. 10th in line. They had come into the Loudoun line through the marriage of Sir Jno. Rawdon, 1st Earl of Moira, with Lady Eliz. Hastings, who succeeded to them on the death of her brother the 10th Earl of Huntingdon. The U.K. Barony of Donington to the late Earl's bro. as male heir. See also Bnss. Grey de Ruthyn and Hastings Marquessate. By virtue of her Hastings descent the Countess is heir of line to Lionel Plantagenet, Duke of Clarence.

The death of the 11th Earl in 1920 produced a briefer abeyance, terminated by the awarding of the Botreaux and Hastings Baronies and the Barony of Stanley (in abeyance since the death of the 5th E. of Derby in 1594) to the present Countess ; those of De Molines and Hungerford, with the revived Barony of Strange of Knokyn (also in abeyance from 1594), being granted to the Countess's sister, Viscountess St. Davids, q.v.

REATION. Bn Macdonald, Irel. 1776.—The Celtic ancestors of line for some generations bore the title "Lord of the Isles," last Lord being also Earl of Ross; but this nobleman was inted for treason and both his titles were annexed to the Scottish wn, the Lordship thus coming in 1469 to be a title of the heir he throne, and since the Union to be one of the Scottish titles he Prince of Wales (the present Bn. is descended from a half-ther of this last Lord of the Isles). A Baronetcy commenced entury and a half later, and was located at Sleat in the island kye; the Peerage adopted the similarly pronounced word Slate ing it off as a genuinely existing place in Co. Antrim: see page for similar instances, but note that the Earls of Antrim were inally a MacDonald line. Sir Alex. Macdonald, 9th Bt., was ed to the Irish Barony, and until 1910 his five successors con-ed to hold both titles. In that year Sir Alexander W. M. Bos-Macdonald of Thorpe Hall (see below) established the legiti-y, under Scottish law, of his grandfather, eldest son of the 3rd Macdonald, and therewith his right to the baronetcy. The Peerage, however, was unaffected by the legitimisation in land of a child born before marriage.

The title of Baron of Mansf (extinct) was conferred upon a younger son of the 5th Visc., the H Wm. Murray, a friend of the poet Pope, who concurrently appointed Chief Ld. Justice of England. He (the Bn.) obtai subsequently two patents of Earldom, of which the former assig the remainder to the wife of his nephew, 7th Visc. Thus, thro the death of the grantee without issue, the Earldoms passed to line of the Viscts., but the Bny. lapsed altogether; whilst two tinct Earldoms of Mansfield passed to the above husband and w but on the death of the latter they were reunited, the 4th Earl u the male side being her grandson and nearest heir (the succee her in 1843, his father in 1840). On the Imperial Roll of Peers title stands "Earl of Mansfield," not "Mansfield and Mansfie though the 4th Earl referred to himself by that double title.

Hamilton, of Hilston Pk., Monmouthsh. ., Villa Indiana, Monte Carlo.

CREATIONS. Scot. : E. of Mar (orig. Marr), bef. 1114, but given edence of 1405 (N.S.) as earliest date for which documentary ence was produced at the "Decreet of Ranking" in 1606 ; Ld. kine, 1429, and Ld. Alloa (?) 1489 (as to which see under follg. .—We are indebted for the earlier part of the following parti- rs to the Hon. Ruaidhri Erskine's investigations into the early ory of this ancient and obscure Peerage, which he has most steously and at considerable pains contributed for our benefit. origin of the house of Mar has been traced back to Corc, son nuzhaidh, King of Munster in the era of St. Patrick. Corc, who banished to Scotland at the instigation of his stepmother, is to have married Mongfhionn, daughter of the King of the Picts, from this marriage the Mar line is regarded as having sprung. descendants of Corc bore the title of Mormhaoir Mhárr or Great ards of Marr (the form "Mhárr" being the genitive of "Mara," "Mormhaor," in plural "Mormhaoir," a variant or earlier form he title usually given as "Mormaer"). Of these descendants, ably the first whose identity is clear was Domhnull (Donald), was slain at Clontarf in 1014. But the first to be styled Earl omes was Ruaidhri (Latinised "Rotheri," but pronounced and written "Ruari"), whose name appears as "Comes" in the ter founding the Abbey of Scone in 1114–15, and in the "Book Deer" in 1132, though in the latter styled Mormhaor : in fact latter title was very probably still used conventionally until extinction of the Celtic dynasty in the person of the "Maid Norway" at the close of the 13th century. William, the 6th . was co-Regent of Scotland in 1258, and the contests of this erful nobleman with Durnard, who declared him illegitimate, add a fresh element of obscurity to the history of this line. William, however, "remained in possession." Donald, the 9th Earl, was Regent of Scotland in 1332. Margaret, Countess 11th in line, married Donald, 1st Earl of Douglas, father of the Earl who fell at "Chevy Chase." The names thus far accepted by Mr. Erskine as either certain or probable Earls (though the element of rivalry casts some doubt in one or two instances) may be thus stated : 1, Ruaidhri ; 2, Gillocher ; 3, Morgund ; 4, Malcolm ; 5, Duncan ; 6, William ; 7 Donald ; 8, Gartnait ; 9, Donald (2) ; 10, Thomas ; 11, William (2) ; 12 James ; 13, Alexander—he and No. 11 taking the title jure uxoris. The 14th, Sir Robt. Erskine, was a collateral relative who had been created Ld. Erskine, but who was not recognised as Earl by the Crown. His successor was granted the Alloa Lordship, but formally dispossessed of the Earldom, and that title was now merged in the Crown until in 1565 this dispossession was pronounced unjust and the 19th Earl and 6th Lord Erskine was fully recognised as lawful holder of the higher of these dignities. The Garioch Lordship was a feudal honour stated to have been conferred upon Lady Christian Bruce, sister of King Robert I. and wife of the 8th Earl, but uncertain. The above 19th Earl was also the 1st in what is now declared to be the line of Mar and Kellie, which continued for several generations to be associated with the original line without apparently any allegation of their distinctness being made : the Erskine and Alloa Lordships had accompanied the leading title, and these are now claimed as belonging to each line. The ground of exclusion of the above Sir Robt. Erskine was the illegitimacy of the husband of the Countess who had preceded him ; but as his own descent was not from these but from the 8th Earl there was obviously reason enough for a reversal of the decree, though under it the title had been bestowed upon sons of the 2nd and 3rd Jameses, and the legitimate successors from the 14th to the 18th were Earls de jure alone. The 20th Earl was Lord Treasurer of Scotland, the 22nd was Chancellor, and the 24th Secretary of State, but he suffered attainder for sharing in the insurrection of 1715. The 27th was in 1824 restored to all the titles (the 25th and 26th being counted in the numbering though legally deprived) ; and it was on the death of the 29th that the separation of the titles occurred as below.

The two Earldoms, "Mar" and "Mar and Kellie," have much intricacy in their history, as will in part be evident from the summary above. In the 15th century the line of Mar became involved in the proceedings detailed above, but in 1565 after an investigation the title was awarded to its then claimant, but the conditions were stated to be so altered that the House of Lords, on reviewing it in 1875, pronounced them to have amounted to a new creation. The succession, however, had for centuries continued as before, and in 1834 the Earldom of Kellie was united with this original Mar Earldom ; but on the death of the holder of the joint titles (29th Earl of Mar) without issue in 1866 they again became separated, the title of Kellie going to the next male heir, whilst the original Earldom followed female succession to the present Earl of Mar. Finally, on the conclusion of the above-mentioned investigation by the House of Lords, it was decided that the Mar Earldom declared to have commenced in 1565 must also pass to the inheritor on the male side whilst the 1404 Earldom remained as the distinct Peerage of Mar, a special Act being passed in 1885 to place unchallenged the continuity of that ancient Peerage. The course of changes may be thus summed up : Up to 1834 what are now pronounced to have been two Mar Earldoms had from 1565 been held by one and the same Peer ; from 1834 to 1866 they remained united and with the further association of the Kellie title ; from 1866 to 1875 this last title parted off and left the two as before ; and since 1875 the Kellie line has been possessed of the 2nd creation of Mar.

(1911), V.D., Lord-Lieut. and Convener of Clackmannansh. and Pres. of its Territ. Force Assoc., Hon. Col. 7th Bn. Argyll and Suthd. Highrs. (Terr.), a Lieut. of Roy. Co. of Archers, formerly Lieut. CREATIONS. Scot. : Ld. Erskine, 1429, and Ld. Alloa (?), 1849 ; E. of Mar (2nd creation, see under that title), 1565 ; Ld. Dirleton, 1603 ; Visc. Fentoun, 1606 ; E. of Kellie, 1619.—Sir Robt. Erskine (Kt., see preceding article) who had been recognised by Robert III. as entitled to the Earldom of Mar, was granted the Erskine Lordship, but it was not till some 108 years later that his line was established in the higher title. His successor appears to have had the Alloa Lordship added. The 4th Lord Erskine fell at Flodden. The 6th Lord Erskine had the Earldom of Mar confirmed to him by charter, and this document, as explained above, was the origin of the division of the titles, it being deduced therefrom that this Peer was constituted recipient of the 1st Earldom of the new creation whilst he continued to rank as 19th under the old. The Dirleton Barony and Fentoup Viscty. were about the same date conferred upon Sir Thos. Erskine, K.G., a grandson of the 5th Lord E., in recognition of his having shared with Sir David Murray (see 'Mansfield") in rescuing King James from the Gowrie conspiracy ; and to him also, rather later, the Kellie Earldom was accorded. On the death of the 10th Earl of this latter line the 27th (9th) Earl of Mar became his successor. The decision of the House of Lords in 1875 is thus given: "Resolved, that Walter Henry, Earl of Kellie, Visc. Fentoun, and Bn. Erskine and Dirleton, hath made out his claim to the Earldom of Mar created in 1565." For further particulars see previous article.

Jno. Churchi Page of Honour to James, Duke of York, afterwards King James was made an officer in the Guards and rendered signal services ag the Moors and at the Siege of Maestricht. He in 1680 attended Prince into Scotland, and was in 1682 made a Peer of that king by the title Lord Churchill of Eyemouth (which title then no further than himself). He next became a General officer, on the accession of James to the throne he was appointed Ambass to France and created Bn. Churchill of Sandridge (English Peer and afterwards Earl of Marlborough. At the Revolution he a doned James and became a supporter of King William, but suspected by him of treachery and committed to the Tower. U Queen Anne he was appointed Captain-General of the Force England, and he then, with the co operation of Prince Euger Savoy, head of the Army of Hungary, began his great military c signalised by the victories of Blenheim, Ramillies, Oudenarde, Malplaquet. Previous to the first of these, and in recognitio a series of achievements in the Netherlands, he was created of Marlborough and Marq. of Blandford. Being accused of pe tion he withdrew from England, the Duchess also being exp from the Court. As he left no male heir, a special Act gave succession to his daughter Henrietta, upon whose death the Duke l its accompanying honours passed to her nephew, Chas. Spencer Earl of Sunderland (his father, the 3rd Earl, having married Duchess's younger sister), thus accomplishing the union of the houses. The 3rd Duke, who had commanded a brigade of Foot ards at Dettingen in 1743, was in 1758 appointed Commander-in-ef of the British Forces intended to serve in Germany under nce Ferdinand of Brunswick; but he (the Duke) died of a fever that year. The famous French song, "Malbrouk s'en va-t-en guerre," itated, though not without contradiction, to relate to a legend the time of the Crusades, and thus to have no connection with above warrior Duke, as the resemblance in name might readily t one to suppose.

MELDRUM, BARON (U.K. 1815), Imper. title of M. of Huntly.

MELFORT EARLDOM. This title is dormant, but may possibly accrue to Lady (MARIE LOUISE SUSAN) EDITH GRACE Drummond, 7th in line of Earldom (Scot.), but adopting style of "Lady Edith Drummond" only; she is however Comtesse de Lussan and Baronne de Valrose (France): dau. of 14th E. of Perth and 6th of Melfort; b. April 29, 1854; suc. (?) 1902 on death of her father, when the two Earldoms are considered to have divided; unmrrd. Res., The Cottage, Kew.

CREATIONS. Scot.: Visc. Melfort and Ld. Drummond of Gilstoun, 1685; E. of Melfort, Visc. Forth, and Ld. Drummond of Riccartoun, Castlemaine, and Galstoun, 1686, but stated to have been surrendered to the Crown in the following year and re-conferred, with succession open to females, in 1688. France: Comte de Lussan and Bn. de Valrose, by mrrge. 1707.—These titles were all conferred upon John, 2nd son of the 3rd Earl of Perth, but the supposed surrender has introduced a complication. The late Earl of Perth and Melfort left as his only surviving child the above daughter, Lady Edith Drummond, and if the fact of the surrender could be proved she would be the unquestioned Countess of Melfort, the Perth Earldom, which is distinctly heritable by males alone, having passed to Visc. Strathallan, who makes no claim to the other Peerage. Lady Edith has written to us to assert that if that surrender could be established she would at once lay claim to the title; but adding that no such substantiation has been found. Thus the original terms of remainder, "to the heirs male of the body of John, Earl of Melfort," are the only ones upon which any present action can be taken, and the claim of Lady Edith is in effect abandoned. James II. when in exile conferred upon the Earl the title of Duke of Melfort, and his son subsequently gave that of Duke of Perth to his brother the 4th Earl. Both these honours were of course worthless as to recognition in this country, but Louis XIV. in 1701 made French Peerages of them both, and on the Continent we are informed that even James's creations were accepted. This Dukedom of Perth expired in 1760; and the Melfort Dukedom, which was limited to heirs male of the body of the 1st Duke, has now also lapsed.

MELGUND, VISCOUNT (U.K. 1813), a title of the Minto Earldom, borne by the heir when a son. The closely similar but extinct title Visc. Melgum was bestowed (Scot. 1627) on a son of 6th E. of Huntly, who died unmrrd. (burned to death in Frendraught Tower) three years later.

Palmer. Seats, Darnaway Castle, Forres, Elginsh.; Donibristle Pk., Crossgates, Fifesh.; Castle Stuart, Inverness; Doune Lodge, Doune, Perthsh.

CREATIONS. Scot.: E. of Moray and Lord Abernethy and Strathearn, 1562; Ld. Doune, 1581; E. of Moray (2nd cr.) and Ld. St. Colme, 1611. Gt. Br.: Bn. Stuart of Castle Stuart, 1796. "Lord Doune" is the courtesy-title of an eld. son.—There have been repeated Earldoms of Moray, some from Celtic times. The 1st Earl of the present series was a son of King James V., Jas. Stewart, Prior of St. Andrews. (His charter of 1562 above was supplemented by others of 1564 and 1566, the last including heirs female; but under Scottish law the precedence remains with the original grant.) He became Regent of Scotland, but was assassinated in 1570. His daughter married the 2nd Ld. Doune, and the husband became 2nd Earl in right of his wife. He too was assassinated, but the 1st Marq. of Huntly, who did the deed, had obtained a writ empowering him to "execute justice" on the accomplices in the Earl of Bothwell's raid on Holyrood House. The 1st Ld. Doune was Sir Jas. Stewart of Doune (whose sister married Robt. Crichton of Cluny and was mother of the "Admirable Crichton"); the 2nd, as we have seen, became 2nd Earl of Moray. The 3rd Earl in 1611 resigned his titles into the King's hands and obtained a new charter of them. The Lordship of St. Colme was granted to a brother of the 2nd Earl. 7 9th Earl received the British Barony. The Barony of Gray was recently included in this line through the daughter of the 11th Bn. Gray marrying the 9th Earl of Moray, their grandson coming to succeed as 14th Earl and 18th Bn. Upon his death without issue the titles separated again.

Rid., formerly Lieut. E. Yorks Mil. : son of 23rd Bn. M. ; b. May 23, 1867 ; suc. 1893 (C.) ; mar. (same year) Mary, dau. of the late Thos. A. Constable. Seat, Allerton Park, Knaresborough, Yorks.

CREATIONS. Eng. : Ld. Mowbray, 1283 by writ ; Ld. Segrave, 1283 by writ ; Bn. and Ld. Stourton, of Stourton, Wilts, 1448 (the oldest Barony by letters patent now extant). Claim to a Norfolk Earldom of 1312 disallowed Nov., 1906.—The first nobles to hold the two oldest of these Baronies were Roger de Mowbray and Nicholas de Segrave, but the two lines became united by the marriage of the 4th Bn. Mowbray with the Bnss. 5th in the Segrave line (whose grandfather had in 1312 been created Earl of Norfolk, and whose mother was Countess and afterwards Life Duchess of the same), and their 2nd son, the 6th Ld. Mowbray and 7th Segrave, was made Earl of Nottingham and Duke of Norfolk. The Duke, as he now was, was charged by the Duke of Hereford (afterwards King Henry IV.) with imputing a murderous intent to King Richard II., and this charge he challenged Hereford to substantiate by single combat. The King forbade the duel and banished them both from the kingdom, when Norfolk died of the plague at Venice (Nicolas says "of grief"). His son, who succeeded, was refused the title of Duke, but retained the double Earldoms and Baronies. He was involved in the rebellion of Scrope, Archbp. of York, and arrested and beheaded without trial. There was thus no attainder, and his titles passed to his brother, to whom eventually the Dukedom was restored. They remained in this line till the death in 1475 of the 5th Duke (10th Ld. Mowbray), who left only a daughter, to whom the Baronies passed, whilst the higher honours became extinct. She was affianced to the Duke of York, brother of Edward V, who, with himself, was murdered in the Tower, the lady pre-deceasing. The Baronies now fell into abeyance between the male descendants of the daughters of the 6th Bn., who had respectively married the ancestors of the present lines of Norfolk and Berkeley. The abeyance was determined in favour of John, Lord Howard, to whom the Dukedom was restored, but who fell at Bosworth and was attainted, as stated under "Norfolk." The history of the two houses is now identical, until in 1777, on the death of the 9th Duke and 22nd Bn., the two Baronies fell again into abeyance, whilst the Dukedom passed from this line to the nearest male heir. It was a hundred years later before the abeyance of the Baronies was ended by their conference in 1878 upon the 20th Bn. Stourton. The 1st Peer in this last line was Sir Jno. Stourton (Kt.), a distinguished soldier and statesman, Treasurer of the Royal Household and M.P. for Wilts and Dorset and whose descendant now came into this line through the marriage of its 16th Bn. with Winifred, one of the co-heiresses to the Mowbray title. The 8th Bn. was hanged (by a silken cord) for the murder of a former steward of his father's. The 10th was heavily fined on suspicion of complicity in the Gunpowder Plot.

. The following is said to be the curious origin of the family name. In the reign of James III. and during a conflict with the House of Douglas, an ancestor of this present family sought refuge in a smithy and disguised himself as one of the workers. Suspicion, however, was excited on the arrival of the pursuers, and in his agitation the fugitive struck a false blow, on which one of them rushed upon him, with the words, "Ye're nae smith." But he proved more of an adept at his legitimate calling, so with a hammer and a red-hot bar the smith and he stood on the defensive, rallied the King's followers, and put the pursuers to rout, thus winning from the monarch a grant of lands with the motto "Non arte sed marte." The inventor of the steam-hammer descends from the same ancestry.

CREATIONS. U.K. : Bn. Nelson, 1801; Earl Nelson and Visc. Merton of Trafalgar, 1805. "Visc. Trafalgar" has been the eld. son's courtesy-title, but "Visc. Merton" was that borne by the present Earl after the death of his elder brother. "Of Nelson and the North" (still less of the South) there is little need to discourse at any length. After his victory of the Nile the gallant Admiral was first created Bn. N. (1798) and then Visc. N. (1801, after Copenhagen), with no special remainder; three months after this last he was a second time created Bn. N., but with special remainder to his father. In the same year he received the Sicilian honour of Duke of Bronte, for which see further under "Bridport," to which house it passed by marriage. His brother and successor was raised to the Earldom with the now subsisting Viscty; he was succeeded by his nephew, whose surname of Bolton was exchanged for Nelson. Of the third great naval victory, which was fatal to its hero, it may be worth remarking that the correct pronunciation is as Byron gives it, Trafalgar', and not as we are in the habit of pronouncing the London Square in which his Column stands. The late Earl informed us that the courtesy-title "Trafalgar" applied to eldest sons is also pronounced with accent on the last syllable.

Earl Marshal and Chief Butler of England; son of 15th D., and of Baroness Herries (below), is heir to his mother's Barony: b. May 30, 1908; suc. 1917. Seats, Arundel Castle, Sussex; Beech Hill, Sheffield; town res., Norfolk House, St. James's Sq., S.W.

CREATIONS. Eng.: E. of Arundel, feudal title, abt. 1155, confirmed 1433 (still by tenure only, as owner of Arundel Castle); B. Maltravers 1330 (by writ); D. of Norfolk and E. of Surrey, 1483. Bn. Fitzalan of Clun and Oswaldestre, 1627; E. of Norfolk, 16. (it is a more ancient Earldom of 1312 which was claimed by Lo Mowbray, but disallowed by the Committee of Privileges).—It i been said, "Happy is the nation that has no history," and as t Norfolk Dukedom has had a very notable history, it follows th its career has been very far from a happy one. In fact, extinctio attainder, forfeiture, beheading, followed to an heir by pardon a restoration, have dogged its course for generations and centuri Wm. de Albini is given by Nicolas as the 1st Earl of Arundel; 7th and 9th Earls were both attainted and beheaded (1326 and 139 but the honours were restored. Jno. Maltravers, 1st Bn. of th title, was proclaimed a traitor in the year of his investiture, restored some 22 years later. His grandson succeeded as 6th E of Arundel, and henceforth the two lines are associated. The 1 Earl was attainted, but the title was restored to the 14th: la on he was created Earl of Norfolk. This last title, as noted abo had been previously created in 1312, the recipient being Thos. Pl tagenet surnamed De Brotherton, 5th son of King Edward I., w was also the first to receive the title of Earl Marshal (there had b "Marshals" in the family before him), which continued in the and was revived at or soon after each fresh creation. The Duked had its beginning in the house of Mowbray (q.v.), the 6th Bn. that title being made Duke of Norfolk in 1397; but he was banis in the same year, and died either of the plague or of grief. eldest son was beheaded, but the 2nd son had the dignity resto to him. The 5th Duke of this line left no male issue, so that Dukedom became extinct, while the Mowbray and Segrave Baro went into abeyance between daughters. Another extinct creat followed in the person of the infant brother of Edward V., who murdered with him in the Tower. One of the above co-heires however, married Sir Robt. Howard, and their son Sir Jno. Howa ho had distinguished himself in the French wars of Henry VI., as created 1st Duke of Norfolk of the present line in 1483, along ith the titles of Hereditary Earl Marshal and Lord Admiral of ngland; he also received grants of land in Suffolk, Kent, Cambridge, Wilts, Somerset, and Cornwall, whilst a special provision warded him £20 a year from the fee-farm at Ipswich "to enable m to keep up the dignity of his office of Earl Marshal." His rong Yorkist tendencies unfortunately led him to cast in his lot ith the fortunes of Richard II. His friends expostulated, but vain, for "Jockey," as they styled him, followed "Dickon" Bosworth, and fell leading the van of his army. Of course Henry II. promptly made all his titles a forfeiture, and his son, the Earl Surrey, the victor of Flodden Field, was also attainted. He how-er was restored, and in 1514 newly created Duke of Norfolk, nking as 2nd Duke. His successor was also attainted, but after-rds restored with the precedence of his father. There were two three separate creations of an Earl of Surrey, two of them being warded to the heirs of the 1st and 2nd Dukes: but they were llowed by forfeitures, and the title became shortly merged in the ukedom. Henry, Earl of Surrey, son of the 3rd Duke whom rke describes as "one of the brightest ornaments of the house Howard, whose iniquitous execution was the last tyrannical act Henry VIII.," held thus only a courtesy-title. His father's life s only saved by the death of the tyrant himself, but the 4th Duke, o followed him to the block in 1572, was his grandson. This 4th ke was attainted and beheaded under Elizabeth in 1572 for com-unication with Mary Queen of Scots. The feudal Earldom of undel was not affected by the attainder, and in 1660 Thos. Howard s restored to the Dukedom with the original precedence of the Duke—i.e. 1483. His brother and successor (as 6th Duke) had eady been created Earl of Norwich, Bn. Howard of Castle Rising, d Earl Marshal of England, this office not having been included the restoration of the Dukedom in 1660. On the death of the 1 Duke in 1777 the Norwich Earldom and Howard Barony expired d the Mowbray and Segrave Baronies fell into their second abey-ce, eventually passing to a separate line. The additional name Fitzalan, which was that of the Earls of Arundel up to 1580, was umed by the 14th Duke in 1842.

The 2nd Earl fell on the Royalist side at Hopton Heath, and his successor, who was equally zealous for the same cause, was among the Peers expelled as "Straffordians" for having when M.P. voted against the attainting of the Earl of Strafford. The Marquessate of Northampton was conferred upon the 9th Earl.—The 3rd Marq. assumed the additional name of Douglas, and the 4th that of Maclean; but the name is conventionally Compton only.

Creations. Eng.: A Bt. 1660. Gt. Br.: E. of Northumberland and Bn. Warkworth, 1749; D. of Northumberland and Earl Percy, 1766; Ld. Lovaine, Bn. of Alnwick, 1784; E. of Beverley, 1790. Some former titles of this house have passed to the Dukedom of Atholl, q.v.—Long previous to either of the above creations there were Lords Percy and Earls of Northumberland, the 1st Earl of this line (created 1377) being father of the renowned "Hotspur," for whom and the Battle of Chevy Chase, see under "Hamilton and Brandon." This same Earl with his son effected the dethronement of Richard II. and brought in the House of Lancaster under Henry IV.; but, being dissatisfied with the new monarch, he, with his son "Hotspur" and his brother the Earl of Worcester, attempted to transfer the crown to the Earl of March. "Hotspur" (Sir Henry Percy) fell at Battle Field, Shrewsbury in 1403; Worcester was beheaded; and Northumberland himself fell in a later battle with the King at Bramham Moor. Both the 2nd and 3rd Earls fell fighting on the side of Henry VI., whilst the 4th was killed in a popular rising occasioned by his indiscreet form of announcement of the harsh refusal of Henry VII. to repeal an obnoxious tax. The 6th Earl in the same line died without issue, and his brother, who would have succeeded, was attainted and executed. The Earl of Warwick was now made Duke of Northumberland by Edward VI., but he too was brought to the block on a charge of treason against Queen Mary by championing the claim of Lady Jane Grey. This had been a totally distinct creation to an equally distinct family, and the Dukedom thereby started proceeded no further; but four years later the Earldom was newly created and restored to the Percy line in the person of the son of the above 6th Earl's brother. He, however, was beheaded by Elizabeth for avowing the Pope's supremacy, whilst his brother and successor was committed to the Tower on the charge of plotting on behalf of Mary Queen of Scots, and he was there put out of the way by means of three bullets. The 9th Earl was imprisoned several years in the Tower on suspicion of complicity in the Gunpowder Plot, being also fined £30,000. Finally, the 11th Earl dying without male issue (we may note by the way the creation of a second Dukedom awarded by Charles II. to one of his natural sons, but going no further), this older Earldom became extinct, though the daughter succeeded to the Percy Barony. Her eldest son was, in 1722, summoned to the House of Lords by this title, but it is now amongst those which have passed to the Dukedom of Atholl. This Bn. Percy was Algernon Seymour, who by inheritance became Duke of Somerset, and was further created Earl of Northumberland and Baron Warkworth. His son-in-law, Sir Hugh Smithson, 4th Bt., was allowed by special remainder to succeed him in his Northern honours, and further advanced to the Dukedom and the Barony of Lovaine. He thereupon assumed the name of Percy, but it is to be noted that the ancient family of Smithson are the male ancestors of the present line of Peers. The 3rd Duke was Ambassador to France and Lord Lieutenant of Ireland; and the 4th, a K.G. and F.R.S., was an Admiral and created Bn. Prudhoe before succession. The Barony of Lovaine, though conferred upon the 1st Duke, was limited in remainder to his second son, but has eventually returned to the original Dukedom. The 2nd Bn. Lovaine was created Earl of Beverley, his son taking the courtesy-title of Lord Lovaine until his succession in 1830 as 2nd Earl. By this Earldom he sat in the House of Lords till 1865, when the death of his cousin the 4th Duke, without issue, brought him the higher Peerage and reunited the titles as above. Previously to this advance his son, the 6th Duke, had held the same courtesy-title as himself, and sat as Lord Lovaine in the House of Commons; but on his father's elevation his own title became Earl Percy. His bro. Lord Henry H. M. Percy followed him in the same constituency for three years, and then the late 7th Duke held the seat as Earl Percy until 1885.

Walpole, the famous Prime Minister of Georges I. and II., after being made K.G. (the last of the few commoners so honoured before Sir Edward Grey in 1912), was in 1742 created Earl of Orford, Visc. Walpole, and Bn. of Houghton. His son, who also held distinguished Government appointments, had many years previously been given the title Bn. Walpole of Walpole, with remainder to the male descendants of his grandfather. The 4th Earl of the older line was Horace Walpole, a noted politician and littérateur, the owner of Strawberry Hill, Twickenham, and 3rd son of Sir Robert. But the latter's brother Horatio had been separately created Bn. Walpole of Wolterton, and to his son Horatio the surviving Barony of Walpole also now passed, he being later on created 1st Earl of Orford in the present line.

Lanarks. Yeo., was State Steward to Earl of Carnarvon when Viceroy of Ireland ; son of 2nd M. ; b. Sept. 23, 1849 ; suc. 1919 (C.) ; mar. 1887 Ellen, dau. of Gen. Auson Stager, U.S.A. Seats, Kilkenny Castle, Ireland ; Gennings, Hunton Maidstone : town res., 7 Portman Sq., W.

CREATIONS. Irel. E. of Ormonde, 1328 ; E. of Ossory, 1528 ; Visc. Thurles, 1536 ; M. of Ormonde, 1825. (? E. of Carrick or Karyke, 1315, see below, also for Bn. Arklow.) U.K. : Bn. Ormonde, 1821.—Theobald FitzWalter, who accompanied Henry II. into Ireland, was created Chief Butler in 1177 ; his successor assumed the title of Le Botiler, which grew into the family name. James, the 7th Butler, having while a minor paid 2,000 marks for liberty "to marry whomsoever he pleased," allied himself accordingly with granddaughter of King Edward I., and was forthwith created Earl of Ormonde. Their son the 2nd Earl was called "The Noble Earl" by virtue of his royal ancestry. The 3rd Earl purchased in 1391 the Castle of Kilkenny, which has ever since been the family residence. The 5th Earl was by Henry VI. made Earl of Wiltshire, a K.G., and Lord High Treasurer of England ; but he was captured by the Yorkists and beheaded. The Earldom was restored by Edward IV. to his brother and heir, a nobleman stated to have been "complete master of all the languages of Europe," and who was sent as Ambassador to several Courts, but who died during a pilgrimage in the Holy Land. The 7th Earl was also attainted, but restored. The 8th a remote cousin, who succeeded in 1515, had in 1527 to relinquish his title to his predecessor's son-in-law, who was also created Visc. Rochford and Earl of Wiltshire, and was father of Lord Rochford and Anne Boleyn, both beheaded. The dispossessed Earl was given the Ossory Earldom as a solace, and on the death of his rival without male issue was restored to his former title. The 9th Earl, who was made Visc. Thurles, was poisoned, together with his steward and sixteen servants, at a supper at Ely House, Holborn. The 10th termed "The Black Earl" from his dark complexion, was made the Elizabeth Lord Treasurer of Ireland. The 12th, who became Lord Lieutenant of the same, was created Marquess and afterwards Duke of Ormonde, the latter title in the Peerage of both kingdoms ; he was also made Earl of Brecknock in England. He is known as "The Great Duke of Ormonde," but the 2nd Duke was equally distinguished as a military commander under both William III. and Anne ; but under George I. he was impeached for high treason, attainted, and deprived of his English titles. He died in exile and his brother succeeded as 3rd Irish Duke, but died childless, whereupon all his titles expired ; but the Irish Earldoms and Viscty. passed de jure to the heir male of the family, and at length (1791) were confirmed to the 17th holder of the title of Earl of Ormonde. The 19th Earl was awarded the re-created and existing Marquessate, as also the Imperial Barony. The Irish titles of E. of Carrick (Karrick, Karrik, or Karyke—1315) and Bn. Arklow (1302) have been also ascribed to the Peerage, and Mr. Cokayne regards the former, in one or other of its forms, as probably correct and as having "lapsed unaccountably" (the branching off of the recognised Carrick Earldom may not improbably be the cause) ; but the Arklow Barony seems shadowy altogether. There have been repeated creations of a Butler Barony in this line (Eng. or U.K.), but the only one extant has passed to the Lucas Baron (late Cowper Earldom)—a daughter of the 1st Bn. Butler having married the 2nd Earl Cowper, to whose successor it reverted in 18 upon removal of an attainder which had lasted from 1715. The Scottish Barony of Dingwall was also brought into this family by the marriage of the 1st Duke with Eliz. Preston, Bnss. in her own right but that also passed to the Lucas line.

CREATIONS. Scot.: Hered. Thane of Lennox, 1070; Here Steward of Menteith and Strathearn, 1473; Ld. Drummond of Cargi 1488; E. of Perth and Ld. Drummond of Stobhall and Montife 1605 (remainder to heirs male whatsoever); Ld. Maderty, 160 Visc. Strathallan and Ld. Drummond of Cromlix, 1686.—The orig of the two earliest titles is quite obscure. Jno. Drummond, a P. and Constable of Stirling Castle, who had been employed on vario embassies, was created 1st Ld. D. of Cargill. The 4th Ld. was ma Earl of Perth, and the 4th Earl was awarded by James II., wh in exile, the title of Duke of Perth, which title continued to be us till the death of the 6th titular Duke. By this time the Earldo had become dormant through an attainder, but the nominal succe sion went to a cousin, whose son was confirmed in the title as 11 Earl. On the death of this last in 1809 the Earldom passed to t line of Melfort (q.v.), and the two Earldoms remained united un 1902, when the decease of the venerable 14th Earl separated the again, on account of the difference in the terms of remainder—t of Melfort, stated to be open to female succession, passing, if su could be proved, to his daughter and only surviving child (who ho ever leaves it dormant), whilst the Perth Earldom went to the near male relative, Visc. Strathallan, involving the absorption of his o Viscty. The title of Ld. Maderty was given to the Hon. Jas. Dru mond, 2nd son of the 2nd Ld. D. of Cargill (a great grandson of t 1st Ld.) and the 4th Ld. M. was promoted to be Visc. Strathall He held a command in the Royalist Army in 1648, and afterwa joined the Marq. of Ormonde in the same cause in Ireland. was taken prisoner at Worcester, but escaped to Scotland, and the dispersion of his party there in 1654 he entered the army Russia. The 4th Visc. was slain at Culloden, and attainder w pronounced against him in the following year. Owing, howev to a verbal inaccuracy in the bill, the title was still assumed. a under the 8th Peer it was legally restored.

CREATION. Eng.: Bn. Windsor, 1529 by writ; U.K.: E. of Plymouth and Visc. Windsor, 1905.—Sir Andrews Windsor (Andrews being his mother's surname), whom Henry VIII. had created a Knight Banneret, was summoned to Parliament by this title. The 6th Bn. was one of the Knights of the Bath whose ceremonial investiture in 1610 is described in our INTRODUCTION under the heading of that Order. His successor was created Earl of Plymouth, the title, which is now revived, lasting 1682–1843. The Windsor Barony, however, fell into abeyance on the death of the 12th Bn. (6th Earl of P.) in 1833, and was in 1855 awarded to Lady Harriett Clive. Her husband, the Hon. Robt. Henry Clive, son of 1st Earl of Powis, had died in the previous year, and she now on accession assumed the additional name of Windsor. There had been an earlier abeyance of the Barony, lasting 1642–60.

Douglas, a natural son of the 2nd Earl of Douglas (who fell at "Chevy Chase," as stated under "Hamilton, D." and "Mar") and himself distinguished in the wars with England, received an undated charter of the Drumlanrig Barony. The 9th feudal Bn. Drumlanrig (a title starting before 1388), having entertained James VI. at the time of his accession to the English crown, obtained the Viscty. and then the Earldom, the feudal title disappearing. The 3rd Earl was made Marq. of Queensberry, and in the following year Duke of the same, both creations having a string of lesser titles attached to them. His successor, however, obtained a new patent under which the terms of remainder were altered, the result being that the Dukedom, with all the other titles not cited above, became merged, on the death of the 4th Duke, in the Dukedom of Buccleuch.

1651 line, the titles of Ld. Ruthven'(1467) and Earl of Gowrie (1581) ing been forfeited by attainder in 1600, in consequence of the t known as the Gowrie Conspiracy: the 1st Ld. R. of the 1651 was grandson of the 2nd Ld. of the former one. The original ent of this Peerage having been destroyed by fire, a question has n raised as to whether it allowed of descent through a female, 'Debrett' accordingly treats the present Bn. as a claimant r, he having had three Baronesses among his predecessors. But rke' furnishes a series of facts which show that the succession never hitherto been considered open to question, whilst the essive Peers have been summoned as Barons or Baronesses to ry coronation from that of George II. onwards.

CREATIONS. Eng.: Bn. St. John of Bletso, 1559; a Bt. 1660. Oliver St. John, 8th Bn. Beauchamp of Bletso (abeyant Peerage) was the first to obtain this Barony. That of Beauchamp had been nferred, by Edward III., upon Roger de Beauchamp, a distinished soldier and Chamberlain of the Household. Sir H. Nicolas entions no fewer than eight Baronies bearing the title of Beauamp, and that of Beauchamp of Bletso was created by writ in 33, but remained dormant from the above Roger's death in the sence of any further summons. Upon the creation by patent of St. John Barony the other title was revived, but through female eritance it passed successively from this line to the Earls of ttingham and Peterborough and the Duke of Gordon, till it fell o abeyance in 1836 between the four surviving sisters of the 5th ke and the then heir of the Duke of Manchester. The 2nd Bn. John was one of the Judges in the trial of Mary Queen of Scots. e 4th was made Earl of Bolingbroke, but that title expired with 3rd Earl. The existing Bolingbroke Viscty., however, starts m the same ancestry as this. The form "Bletso" is that of the ll of the Peers and of 'Debrett' and Mr. Cokayne; elsewhere it iven as "Bletsoe" or "Bletsho."
